

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A semiconductor memory device having a hierarchical structure of data input/output lines and a precharge method thereof. A precharge method in a semiconductor memory device having a hierarchical structure includes precharging the global input/output line pairs with half of a memory cell array voltage, and precharging the local input/output line pairs with the half of the memory cell array voltage.